

Short Bio:

Dr. Richard Frimpong Opong was educated at the University of Ghana, Ghana School of Law, University of Cambridge, Harvard University, and University of British Columbia. He is currently a founding faculty member and Assistant Professor at the Thompson Rivers University, Faculty of Law – Canada's newest law school. Prior to this he taught at Lancaster University Law School, United Kingdom, and was a Killam Post-doctoral Research Fellow at the Schulich School of Law, Dalhousie University, Canada. One of his principal research interests is private international law, with a special focus on Africa. He has published widely on the subject and is frequently consulted by law firms, international organizations, academics and students. His forthcoming monograph - Private International Law in Commonwealth Africa (Cambridge University Press, 2013) – explores nationally and comparatively the law in fifteen countries namely: Botswana, the Gambia, Ghana, Kenya, Lesotho, Malawi, Namibia, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, South Africa, Swaziland, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia and Zimbabwe.